Partnering Artists

David Gochenour has a BFA from Florida Atlantic University. He has taught ceramics and sculpture while developing his core philosophy of "Turn the Negative Positive". Using discarded material to create pieces of art, David has created this installment from scrap steel and stone pieces. The artwork on display can be purchased at the listed price. Additional pieces can be found at Snow Creek Studios in downtown Mt. Shasta. Art Horvath is a large contributing artist to David's work and series.

Art is a regional welder and stone mason who has been a strong supporter of the City of Mt. Shasta and regional art initiatives.
